

Goodbye to green, hello to sustainability / Designers discuss saving the earth

At Enid Ford, the Durante Group of Canada shows two versions of Jeffrey Braun's "Jewel" chair, but only one is environmentally green. Showroom manager Johanna Spilman says one has shinier wood -- and, to the surprise of visitors, it's not the nongreen chair. ($3,795 to the trade for the green "Jewel," $3,220 nongreen.) The screen behind them is by Karen Sikie, Paper Mosaic Finishes. Chronicle photo by Frederic Larson
